“ADOPTION as a sustainable legacy”

A celebration of Motherhood

Meet the remarkable woman who will receive the

Mother of the Year Award

Josh Russell, Pianist

Josh has performed as a pianist, organist and conductor throughout the United States, Europe, and Haiti. He has performed lecture-recitals of Haitian piano music in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania and at Illinois State University for “Super Regional” conferences of the College Music Society. Josh uses his talents to change the World. In 2001, he traveled to Port-au-Prince, Haiti, where he conducted the Petits Chanteurs boys choir and served on the piano faculty for the École Sainte Trinité Summer Music Camp for Haitian youth. In addition to performing, Joshua maintains an active teaching schedule as a member of the faculty at Cornell College in

Josh Coyne, Violinist

A talented young musician/composer, Josh has performed for many sophisticated audiences and in quite prestigious settings. Last August he performed a solo recital on the Millennium Stage at the Kennedy Center and also at the the 2008 Reginald F. Lewis Museum GALA. About Haiti and Haitians, Josh says: “I was adopted and do not know my birth heritage, but I am so impressed by the spirit and the accomplishments of the many Haitian people I have had the opportunity to meet, and so respectful of all they do to raise awareness of Haiti, that I have come to feel that I am
